DETAILED ACTION

Status of Claims

Responsive to the amendment filed 17 September 2007, claim 1 is amended. Claims 1-10 are currently under examination.

Status of Previous Rejections

The amendments to the claims require new grounds for rejection, stated below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

Claim 1 recites the limitation "A method for producing by injection molding a composite metal product containing a carbon nano material and a powderized metal material" that comprises "melting the powderized metal material contained in the granules." This feature is new matter, and was not described in the instant specification, or present in the claims as originally filed. Instead the instant specification describes a process using powder to create a sheet material, and injection molding granules made from that sheet material, wherein the powder is melted (see SUMMARY OF THE INVENTION, DESCRIPTION OF THE PREFERRED EMBODIMENTS, claim 1, lines 7-13). There is no indication that the powderized metal remains powderized after being melted, nor would one of ordinary skill in the art understand that the powder remains powderized after being melted and injection molded. One of ordinary skill in the art would not have recognized from the instant disclosure that a process of melting a powderized metal to form a composite material and injection molding that material could be used to manufacture a composite metal product that contains powderized metal as required by claim 1. Applicant is further directed to MPEP 2163 and MPEP 2111.03.

The examiner finds that none of the prior art teaches or makes obvious a method of forming "a composite metal product that containing a carbon nano material and a powderized metal material" including a step of "melting the powderized metal material contained in the granules." Rather, one of ordinary skill in the art would immediately understand that by melting the powderized metal in the manner described in claim 1, it is no longer powderized metal, but a semi-solid or liquid metal which does not maintain powderized form.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 1 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
